

PRESS RELEASE

Monrovia, Liberia (July 15, 2022) - Naymote Partners for Democratic Development calls on President George Weah to report to the public on the status of special committees he previously established to investigate or address issues of national concern including those bordering on corruption allegations and addressing service delivery challenges. The institution notes that special presidential committees are intended to perform special tasks or conduct special investigations and report back within a reasonable timeframe. In essence, they perform functions which the traditional bureaucracy might take longer or might not have the expertise to perform. Therefore, the public expects high quality deliverables and integrity in the conduct of the work special presidential committees.

The institution has tracked 14 committees mandated by President George Weah, between 2018 and 2022, to perform special functions, including investigations into alleged acts of corruption.

However, NAYMOTE notes that only three (3) of the 14 committees established so far have publicly reported or executed their mandates, while the status of the work of the remaining twelve (12) remains largely unknown. This might be either because their reports were not made public, or they did not perform their functions.

Below is a brief information on the 14 committees established (and tracked by NAYMOTE) since 2018.

1. Committees whose reports are publicly available

1.1 Special Presidential Task Force to “retrieve all government-owned vehicles” in the possession of former government officials – This task force was established on February 26, 2018. The task force executed its mandate and reported to the President on July 4, 2018 — it was also dissolved on this date. However, there is no information on action taken against noncompliant former officials.

1.2. Special Presidential Committee to review allegations made by Global Witness in its reports concerning the National Oil Company of Liberia (NOCAL). The committee was established in April 2018 and chaired by Cllr. Ndubuisi Nwabudike. The committee executed its mandate, and their report was presented to the President on May 16, 2018. However, there is no available information on action taken in implementing the recommendations in the report.

1.3. Special Presidential Committee to recruit two Deputy Auditor Generals of the General Auditing Commission (Deputy Auditor General for Audit Services and Deputy Auditor General for Administration), and the Director General of the Internal Audit Agency. The committee was established in October 2021. The committee executed its mandate and reported to the President on May 16, 2022. The President appointed the Director-General of the Internal Audit Agency (IAA) and three new Deputies at the GAC on the same day.

2. Committees whose status are unknown to the public or have yet to execute their mandate

Steering Committee (SC) of Special Economic Zones (SEZs). The committee was established on April 8, 2019, and mandated to create, drive, guide, enhance, coordinate and manage single, multiple and mixed-use Special Economic Zones (SEZs) in Liberia. Three years after its establishment, there's no available information regarding the committee's work and report.
- 2.11. In May 10, 2022, President Weah mandated the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Dee-Maxwell Kemayah, to investigate circumstances leading to the issuance of Liberia's Diplomatic passport to Mr. Sheik Bassirou Kante, who was recently arrested in the United States on allegations of fraud and report. The President mandated Minister Kemayah to submit a full report detailing a review of how Liberian diplomatic passports are issued in one week. There is no available information on the status of the committee's work.

The institution believes that special committees are an important part of the governance process and facilitate service delivery and accountability mechanisms. It is therefore important that the government ensures that functions of the traditional bureaucracy occasionally outsourced to special committees are speedily implemented and reports on their activities are made publicly available. This is important not only for the effective functioning of the government but also in deepening trust between the government and the citizens and strengthening the social contract which mandates the government to act on behalf of the people. We therefore call on the President of the Republic of Liberia to ensure the timely release of the reports of these presidential committees where they are available and prevail on those that are yet to deliver on their mandate or report on their work to do so in the interest of the public.

The institution believes for the government to be accountable the people must be aware of what is happening in the country so it is important that the press and the people are able to get information about the statutes of the various committees' setup by the President in a timely manner.
